Smart metering

- The CR participates in the European Smart Metering Alliance, which promotes awareness and introduction of smart metering technologies
- Smart metering technologies make it possible to track the current consumption of energy used during a shorter time period (1 day ...), to find out the proportion of contributions of individual energy consuming appliances to the whole energy consumption, larger scope of output values (kWh, CO₂)
- The above information may lead to optimization of the energy use by means of change of behaviour (change of maintenance, change of use of appliances, substitution of appliances by new lower energy consuming appliances, ...)
- Sufficient motivation (information on inefficiency and potential of energy savings and assistance during implementation of energy conservation measures.)
